

Abstract of Disclosure

To improve engine performance and reduce wear and friction, a porous coating is applied to piston skirts and cylinder bores via a thermal spray process. The porous nature of the coating allows for oil to be held on the surfaces enhancing lubrication.